From the Pastor's desk...

In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw the Lord sitting on a throne, high and lofty; and the hem of his robe filled the temple. Seraphs were in attendance above him; each had six wings: with two they covered their faces, and with two they covered their feet, and with two they flew. And one called to another and said: "Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of hosts; the whole earth is full of his glory." The pivots on the thresholds shook at the voices of those who called, and the house filled with smoke.

And I said: "Woe is me! I am lost, for I am a man of unclean lips, and I live among a people of unclean lips; yet my eyes have seen the King, the LORD of hosts!" Then one of the seraphs flew to me, holding a live coal that had been taken from the altar with a pair of tongs. The seraph touched my mouth with it and said: "Now that this has touched your lips, your guilt has departed and your sin is blotted out." Then I heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" And I said, "Here am I; send me!" Isaiah 6:1-8

Dear Friends,

As you may know, Isaiah 6:1-8 is a vision of worship in God's heavenly throne-room. It's also the pattern for our weekly Sunday morning worship—adoration, confession, assurance of pardon, hearing the word, and then being sent. We were created by God for worship and it is central for our lives and the lives of our family members. In a coldly utilitarian world, worship is where we come together as a community of faith to engage in what one person has called "purposeless praise."

Worship is where we gather to hear words we will hear nowhere else and to keep the promises we made at

GIVE ON THE GO!

Summer is a time for getaways and vacations. Your church is still here even when you aren't, and we miss you. Would you like to give your pledge or other gifts while you are away? Simply visit guilfordpark.org and click on the Serve tab, choose Giving from the drop-down menu, enter your type of donation, and click the Donate button. You may then enter your gift amount and your credit/debit card information (or log in to PayPal if you are a member), and give securely and confidentially. Your gifts help us continue to serve our church body and the community. Thank you for your generosity to GPPC!

our baptism and confirmation. And though we are often fed in worship, it's not about us; it's about God.

Beginning in July, we're trying an experiment that many of you have requested in order to worship together as one congregation. For the entire month of July, we're going to have one combined worship service at 10:00 a.m. followed by Sunday School at 11:00. In order to honor contemporary and traditional services, we will alternate styles as follows: July 5 (traditional), July 12 (contemporary), July 19 (traditional), and July 26 (contemporary). The last time we attempted to have a single worship time during the month of July, our attendance was poor. We're hoping the results will be different this time.

Hope to see you in July, because it's not about us. It's about God.

Peace,

Jeff

P.S.

As part of the Tend the Temple emphasis, I will be teaching an interactive five-part Bible study series in July. Written by Ian Price and entitled "A Sensual Faith: Experiencing God Through Our Senses," each session focuses particularly on one of the body's five senses. All of the studies begin at 6:00 p.m. and each lasts about an hour and 15 minutes. Here's the schedule. July 1 Touching. July 6 Hearing. July 8 Smelling. July 27 Seeing. July 29 Tasting. Unless something changes, we will plan to meet in the church library. No preparation from participants is required and each session is self-contained. So please join us for one, some, or all of the sessions as we encounter the goodness and love of God in our bodies.

P.P.S.

One of our young adults, Kelly Kinnear, has embarked on a three-month mission trip to Central America. Let's surround her with our emails and prayers:

"DOS AND DON'TS" FOR HOSPITAL VISITORS:

Do ask your patient's permission to visit before you arrive. Ask her to be candid with you, and if she prefers you not visit, ask her if another day would be better, or if she would prefer you visit once she gets home. Many patients love visitors, but some just don't feel up to it. Do your patient the courtesy of asking permission.

Do wash your hands and sanitize them before you touch the patient or hand the patient something you've been touching. If you wash your hands, then touch something else, like a telephone or TV remote or even the bed linens or your jacket, wash your hands and sanitize them again. Infections come from almost any source and the pathogens can survive on surfaces for days.

Do stay for a short time. It's the fact that you have taken the time to visit, and not the length of time you stay, that gives your patient the boost. Staying too long may tire her out. Better to visit more frequently, but for no more for a half an hour or so each time.

Do leave the room if the doctor or provider arrives to examine or talk to the patient. The conversation or treatment she provides is private, and unless you are a proxy, parent, spouse or someone else who is an official advocate for the patient, that conversation is not your business. You can return once the provider leaves.

Don't expect the patient to entertain you. Your friend or loved one is there to heal and get healthy again, not to talk or keep you occupied. It may be better for your patient to sleep or just rest than to carry on a conversation with you. If you ask her before you visit, gauge her tone of voice as well as the words she uses. She may try to be polite, but may prefer solitude instead of a visit.

Don't stay home, on the other hand, because you assume your friend or loved one prefers you not visit. You won't know until you ask, and your friend or loved one will appreciate the fact that you are trying to help her by asking the question. You can't risk being responsible for making your favorite patient even sicker than she already is.

A Note from Jo

I held off for months and months. I watched as seemingly everyone around me got one and raved about it. But last week, I got one. I succumbed to the promises. I was lured by the gadgetry. And hey, I need it for work.

Have you figured it out yet? I got a Fitbit. I've had it for all of 5 days, and I'm just a wee bit obsessed. Did you know it's only 8:45 a.m. and I've already walked 1475 steps which for my short legs equals .61 miles? Maybe today will be the day I hit my first 10,000 steps!

But why 10,000 steps, you ask? Honestly, until writing this, I didn't know the answer myself. I just knew that "sitting is the new smoking". In other words, our lack of daily activity is what is going to make us ill, deprive us of quality of life, and perhaps even shorten our life spans. But back to the magic number of steps.

According to Shape Up America, founded in 1994 by public health leader, C. Everett Koop, MD, ScD, 10,000 steps a day is the amount of exercise needed to maintain a healthy weight. It's the approximate number of steps to walk five miles in a day, and to burn 500 calories. It is not the number of steps to lose weight without changing your eating habits.

Here at Guilford Park we are in the middle of our Tend the Temple year. A year where we are honoring God with our bodies in the areas of worship, education, fellowship, and justice. As a part of this program, we are going to Walk to Bethlehem beginning September 1st, and arrive in time for the celebration of Jesus' birth on December 25th.

Since I am much better with words than numbers, I contacted my sister (a math teacher) to figure out how many folks we need on a team to arrive in Bethlehem by December 25th. The answer: If we all walk 10,000 steps a day from September 1-December 25, we will need 13 people per team. Now we believe in grace and accomplishable goals here at GPPC, which is why I'm encouraging teams of 15-20 people.

Use groups you're already a part of: a choir, a Circle, Session, youth group, etc. If you do not already own a pedometer, now is a good time to get one. Start tracking your steps over a week or two, and see how far off you are from 10,000. To help you build up, add an additional 500 steps every week or two to help your body adjust to the new level of exercise.

Along with walking, the Walk to Bethlehem program will have a devotion guide for you to do alone and/or in a group to integrate all areas of our Tend the Temple theme.

Walk to Bethlehem Quick Facts

- The goal is for everyone to walk 5 miles (10,000) steps each day
- 15-20 people per team
- This is a 116 day program
- A simple pedometer found at a drug store can track your steps
- Get a "multiplier" if you are not physically able to walk 10,000 steps
- 10,000 steps burns 500 calories

Are you worried you can't walk 10,000 steps a day because of physical limitations? Congregational Nurse Janet Dawson can provide you with a "multiplier" to help with that! She'll help you figure out how many steps are appropriate for you to walk in a given day; perhaps it's 2,000. Then she'll give you the number 5 to multiply against your 2,000 steps to reach the goal of 10,000. If you cannot walk at all, there will be other ways to participate in the program that use the abilities you have to contribute.

Check out the website and next month's Guidepost for more information about how to form a group, track steps, and more!

Blessings on the journey,
Jo Owens

Walk to Bethlehem– Frequently Asked Questions

Question: Why 10,000 steps?

Answer: The goal of walking 10,000 steps is recommended in more places than just the Fitbit or Jawbone (exercise trackers). The Surgeon General has advocated for Americans to increase their exercise levels since 1996 to help combat our rapidly growing obesity problem. The recommendation is to get 30 minutes of exercise a day. Shape Up America, 501(c)3 not-for-profit organization committed to raising awareness of obesity as a health issue and to providing responsible information on healthy weight management, notes that “For weight management, studies suggest that walking 10,000 steps a day is the right activity ball park to be in.”

Question: Do I have to walk 10,000 steps all at once?

Answer: No. Use your regular activities throughout the day. Instead of picking up the phone to talk to a co-worker, walk down the hall. Take the stairs instead of the elevator. Park farther away at the grocery store. March in place while fixing lunches or brushing your teeth. And yes, you’ll probably need to do a block or two of walking throughout the day to accomplish the goal.

Question: If I have a group of 15 people and we don’t hit 10,000 steps everyday, will we be able to reach the goal?

Answer: Yes! It actually only takes 13 people walking 10,000 steps (five miles) a day to reach Bethlehem in our time frame. It takes 22 people walking 6,000 steps (3 miles) a day to accomplish the same goal. If you have a group between 15 and 20 people, there’s naturally some padding in there for rainy days.

Question: How do I get a multiplier?

Answer: Janet Dawson, our Congregational Nurse, will set up some times to meet with folks.

Question: I know that I’m walking/exercising the right amount for myself, but I’m not hitting the 10,000 step goal. I’m not physically unable, but I don’t want a multiplier. What then?

Answer: We trust you to know what’s right for yourself and your body. For the purposes of this program, if you are pushing yourself and getting around 30 minutes of exercise on top of your regular daily activities (or if you have very active daily activities), go ahead a log 10,000 steps. Feel free to talk to Nurse Janet if you have any questions or concerns.

Question: I’m not walking 10,000 steps, but I want to be. Right now, I’m only walking 5,000. How do I get to 10,000?

Answer: First thing, if you haven’t already, buy a simple pedometer from a drug store. They are relatively inexpensive. Second, track your number of steps for a week or two and find the average. Each week (to two weeks), try adding another 500 steps until you reach your goal. (There’s a reason we’re telling you about this in July!)

Question: I want to know more about walking 10,000 steps than just what you’ve told me. Where should I go?

Answer: Check out websites like:
<http://shapeup.org/10000-steps/>
<http://www.pbs.org/americaswalking/health/health20percentboost.html>

Stranger to Neighbor Event Thursday, July 30th, 6 to 8 p.m.

Want to get to know your Greensboro neighbors better? We have an excellent opportunity for you! Our church, with help from the mission committee, is sponsoring a FaithAction International House "Stranger to Neighbor" event on Thursday, July 30th from 6 to 8 p.m., in the Fellowship Hall. The event will include dinner, some time for cultural exchange (more details later!), and small group conversation. And as you can see below in a picture from the last event at St. Andrews Episcopal, these events involve lots of fun!

FaithAction's mission is to serve our newest immigrant neighbors, and to educate and connect our diverse community across lines of culture and faith. It is nearly 20 years old, and was named Greensboro's "Nonprofit of the Year" for 2013. Many of you recall David Fraccaro's visits during our immigration Enrichment Series, as well as him preaching for us a couple times. GPPC is one of FaithAction's most loyal faith communities, donating annually through the mission committee, sponsoring a tremendous Toy Drive at Christmas, donating regularly to the food and diaper pantry through Circle 9 members, and allowing them to use our space for activities such as a prayer vigil and board retreat.

We will be taking reservations later in order to plan for dinner, as well as soliciting volunteers, but please consider now if you (and your older children) would enjoy being part of such a great evening of multi-cultural and multi-faith exchange ... and MARK YOUR CALENDAR!

Session Highlights

from the June 21, 2015 Stated Meeting:

The Session approved the Preschool constructing a door within the wall that currently separates classrooms 105 and 107. This will enable the two classrooms to be used in conjunction without the children having to walk in the main hallway.

Funding was approved for a digital sign on Lawndale Avenue and for much needed Sanctuary improvements to the floors and pews.

An 11th standing committee was formed: Justice and Peacemaking. The Session approved a one-time exception for the chair of this new committee to be selected from all ordained elders, not just the active elders who are all currently chairing/vice chairing a committee. Nominations for this position will be accepted through Sunday, July 12.
